UNC Charlotte Psychology: Study Abroad in Amsterdam!

World-wide university partnerships offered by UNCC's Office of Education Abroad (Office of International Programs) <https://edabroad.uncc.edu/> can introduce you to locations and experiences well beyond the walls of Colvard. Studying abroad is a wonderful opportunity to engage with a different culture and benefit from the resources of another educational institution. Many institutions abroad offer excellent psychology courses, consider taking some required psychology courses and classes on topics different from those available at UNCC. Study abroad can easily fit into your academic plan by visiting the Office of Education Abroad to select an international program, meeting with your psychology advisor to decide on the best time to go and the classes to take, and consulting with the Office of Student Financial Aid <http://finaid.uncc.edu/> to make the opportunity affordable. Learn about yourself, learn about psychology, and learn about the world by participating in study abroad!

As a metropolitan institution, the University of Amsterdam (UvA) is housed in historic and modern buildings situated within the city's "canal ring," a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Reflective of Dutch society, UvA characterizes itself as having "a tolerant, open, and international academic tradition." The University emphasizes an interactive teaching style, promoting student participation and development of independent thought. Moreover, the University is distinguished as one of Europe's largest research universities. Professors and alumni of the University of Amsterdam have included six Nobel Prize winners.

Sample Classes: Psychophysiological Experimentation; Career Management, Planning, & Development; Sports Psychology; Cross-Cultural Psychology; & Psychological Interventions
